TELAGIO BAPTISTA / Artist Bio

Telagio's passion for art began as a gifted child winning national awards in high school, and a scholarship to art college. He also worked in numerous leading advertising agencies as an Art Director and owned a design studio in Hawaii for 20 plus years. Again, winning his share of design awards along his creative path.

At a youthful age, he was also a performing concert violinist and Concert Master for a symphony. This is why painting watercolors was a masters medium of choice for him to pursue and the very challenge that inspires him.

He started to evolve as a watercolorist in art college and upon completion of his education, he decided to set aside the brushes to pursue his career as a commercial artist in graphic design.

Telagio believes that watercolor is a magical and exotic medium that has no creative boundaries. This enhances a multitude of personal emotions to surface within the viewer.

His primary focus is in color harmony using a limited palette. He also believes the eye should have a resting place while viewing his painting without distracting backgrounds.

Telagio's award-winning diversified watercolor paintings have been honored at juried Regional and International art shows, many of which are now in the homes of private collectors.

He continues his artistic journey by actively participating in ongoing juried art shows. In addition, watercolor workshops are conducted regularly in Northern California
